How fees are decided

Each year in late spring, we assess the charity's finances, collate feedback from members and consider the general state of the economy. From this data, various options are put before the Finance National Council in September, which is made up of two representatives from each federation.

National Council members vote for their preferred option, allowing them to apply their judgement in terms of what their federations and WI need and what they feel is right for members.

The outcome is then presented to the NFWI Board of Trustees.

Member benefits include

- ❖ Free online courses from the huge number available on the WI Learning Hub.
- ❖ 8 issues of WI Life magazine each year, and access to the My WI portal.
- ❖ Physical and virtual meetings – welcome places to find new friends and join in a huge range of activities.
- ❖ Get stuck into local and national campaigning on issues like Clean Rivers, and No More Violence Against Women.

The NFWI %

The NFWI % of subscriptions is used to further the development of our campaigning – an important part of our legacy and future as an influential movement of women; and also contributes to governance and operational costs.

The NFWI share also pays for legal advice, and digital platforms such as the website, My WI, as well as WI Life magazine, and events including the Annual meeting.

The NFWI take the responsibility for the effective use of your subscriptions very seriously and always ensure that your money is being used to the best effect for all our members.
